

SENIOR GEP EXECUTIVE WINS PROS-TO-KNOW AWARD FROM SUPPLY & DEMAND CHAIN EXECUTIVE MAGAZINE

- Tunir Chatterjee is the latest GEP veteran to join the ranks of GEP colleagues with honors from SDCE Magazine

Clark, NJ – March 1, 2013 – GEP, the industry’s leading provider of procurement software and procurement services, focused exclusively on sourcing and procurement, today announced Tunir Chatterjee has been awarded the Pros-To-Know Award from Supply & Demand Chain Executive magazine, one of the industry leading sources of supply chain news and information.

“The efforts that a number of the industry’s leading executives continue to take to improve their business’s functionality and in turn, progress the global supply chain—this was one of the main reasons we started the ‘Pros to Know’ awards in the first place,” said Barry Hochfelder, Editor of Supply & Demand Chain Executive.

Honoring the supply chain’s best and brightest, Supply & Demand Chain Executive’s “Pros to Know” include professionals proactively working to improve their business’s functions in a number of categories—including manufacturing and production output; procurement; logistics; risk mitigation strategies; sourcing; financial operations; packaging and distribution; transportation; and more.

Among other numerous other accomplishments, Tunir was recognized for doubling the number of consultants in the APAC region for GEP and adding nearly a dozen new accounts to its client portfolio, helping to grow the company’s global business even further.

Tunir, a veteran of both major global enterprise procurement organizations and blue-chip consulting firms, also racked up enormous success streamlining complex procurement operations at several key multinational clients, saving them millions of dollars while improving performance and satisfaction among internal clients.
